On 22 November, the Architects? Council of Europe (ACE) will be holding its General Assembly at the COAC?s headquarters in Plaça Nova. The 43 organisations that form part of the Council, including the CSCAE (the Higher Council of Architects? Associations of Spain), will all be participating.

Several accompanying events have been organised around the Assembly, some of which will be open to the general public. The most notable of these are the closing event at Espai Simon 100, on 22 November, and the Young Architects' Forum, on 23

November at the COAC.

The programme of activities also includes organised tours for the delegates of the Sant Pau Art Nouveau Site, the Kàlida Centre, the Institute for Research in Biomedicine, Pavelló de la República CRAI Library, and Casa Bloc in Sant Andreu.

Architects? Council of Europe
The ACE, which was founded in 1990, is made up of the representative and regulatory national institutions of European Union Member States, plus Switzerland and Norway.

Through its member organisations, the ACE represents the interests of more than 600,000 architects in 31 countries, oversees the promotion of architecture in Europe, and upholds architectural quality and the sustainable development of our built environment. It also advocates for quality in professional practice and cross-border cooperation.

For further information, please refer to the ACE website [2].
