Services for Companies ^[1]

The COAC offers companies a wide range of services in response to their marketing and communication needs.

There are many companies with a long history of close collaboration with the Association, through which they have been able to take advantage of solutions and tools to improve distribution of their products and services, enhance their brand image amongst architects, the industry and the general public and, ultimately, to have more direct, fluid and stable relationships with trade professionals.

What do you need? Let's talk about it.
